A draft notice abstract checked against the museum's consultation record and against the five items the regulation asks a notice to carry.

ORIGINAL, WITH EDITS MARKED

SPECIMEN, PREPARED BY EDITFAST FOR ILLUSTRATION. NOT A REAL RECORD.

Prepared for the Wexley Institute (fictitious), draft notice abstract

EXTRACT FROM THE INSTITUTE'S CONSULTATION RECORD (reproduced unchanged in both panels)

CR-1 Determination reached in consultation: cultural affiliation is clearly identified with two Indian Tribes, named in the record.

CR-2 Totals as agreed with the consulting parties: 4 individuals, and 61 associated funerary objects counted by lot.

CR-3 The 1931 accession register describes the objects using a term the consulting parties asked not be repeated in the notice.

CR-4 The consulting parties supplied an account of the objects' use. They asked that it be treated as confidential and not published.

CR-5 Authorized representative: Dr. E. Marchetti, 555-0113, emarchetti@example.org, Wexley Institute, 200 Halloway Street, Rilburn, Ohio 44100.

CR-6 The Federal Register calculates and inserts the date 30 days from publication.

DRAFT ABSTRACT

The Institute has completed an inventory of these remains.¹ Museum staff have determined, on the basis of the 1931 accession register, that the objects are of the type described in that register as curios.² Approximately 60 objects are involved, along with a small number of individuals.³ The consulting parties told us the objects were used in a ceremony described to Institute staff in detail.⁴

Repatriation may occur after 30 days.⁵

Contact the Institute for further information.⁶

WHAT CHANGED, AND WHY

#	Was	Now	Reason
1	The Institute has completed an inventory of these remains.	The Wexley Institute has completed an inventory of human remains and associated funerary objects, in consultation with the two Indian Tribes named in this notice.	43 CFR 10.10 governs human remains and associated funerary objects together, and the draft named only remains while CR-2 counts both. CR-1 records that the determination was reached in consultation, which the abstract did not say.
2	Museum staff have determined, on the basis of the 1931 accession register, that the objects are of the type described in that register as curios.	Cultural affiliation is clearly identified with [the two Indian Tribes named in the consultation record, to be inserted by the Institute].	CR-1 records a determination of cultural affiliation reached in consultation, and the draft carried no determination at all. What the draft carried was a museum-staff characterization of the objects drawn from a 1931 register, which under 43 CFR 10.3 is Step 1 material rather than the Step 3 determination. 43 CFR 10.10(d)(1)(iii)(B) has the determination identify the Indian Tribe by name, and CR-1 records that the names are in the record rather than supplying them, so a placeholder marks where they go. CR-3 records that the consulting parties asked for the register's term not to be repeated, so it is not repeated.
3	Approximately 60 objects are involved, along with a small number of individuals.	The inventory covers 4 individuals and 61 associated funerary objects, counted by lot.	43 CFR 10.10(e)(2) asks for the total number of individuals and associated funerary objects, counted separately or by lot. CR-2 gives both totals as agreed with the consulting parties, and approximately 60 is neither of them.
4	The consulting parties told us the objects were used in a ceremony described to Institute staff in detail.	(removed)	CR-4 records that the parties asked for this account to be treated as confidential and not published. It is removed rather than shortened, because a shorter version would still publish it.
5	Repatriation may occur after 30 days.	Repatriation may occur on or after [date to be calculated by the Federal Register, 30 days from publication].	CR-6 records that the Federal Register calculates and inserts the date. The bracketed placeholder marks where it goes, and after 30 days does not say 30 days from what.
6	Contact the Institute for further information.	Authorized representative: Dr. E. Marchetti, 555-0113, emarchetti@example.org, Wexley Institute, 200 Halloway Street.	43 CFR 10.10(e)(2) asks for the authorized representative's name, phone number, email address, and mailing address. CR-5 supplies all four, and the draft gave none of them.
